Hope for Grieving Families

Jeff's Place offers comprehensive bereavement support services ensuring that all children, teens, and families experience a healthy grieving process in a supportive environment.

BACK

Jeff's Place has recently developed the Inventory of Youth Adaptation to Loss (IYAL)

- The IYAL is an outcome measurement tool that intends to provide best-evidence based practices for bereavement interventions for youth and inform public policy on issues related to childhood bereavement.
- The IYAL has the potential to be a useful instrument not just in assessing youth individually, but those who participate in both short and long-term grief and bereavement programs.
- The IYAL may also have potential to assess changes in individual feelings and social support relationships over time.
